

Globus Medical to Participate as Platinum Sponsor at North American Spine Society Annual Meeting

October 5, 2020

AUDUBON, Pa., Oct. 05, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Globus Medical, Inc. (NYSE:GMED), a leading musculoskeletal solutions company, today announced it will participate as a platinum sponsor at the North American Spine Society (NASS) Annual Meeting and Virtual Experience hosted online from October 6-9, 2020. Globus Medical's participation at NASS includes webinars from surgeon experts featuring the latest clinical experiences using the company's ExcelsiusGPS[®] Interbody Solutions platform and minimally invasive expandable interbody technologies.

ExcelsiusGPS[®] Interbody Solutions is the latest module enhancement to the ExcelsiusGPS[®] robot-assisted spine surgery system that offers enhanced visualization, constant real-time feedback of dilation, disc prep, implant insertion, and the visibility to help achieve optimal implant placement. With this addition to today's most comprehensive robot-assisted spine surgery platform on the market, surgeons can now perform minimally invasive surgery using navigated implants from the most advanced expandable interbody portfolio on the market.

"As leaders in the musculoskeletal device industry, we are committed to supporting the research, education, and development of medical advancements through robotic spine surgery," said Vice President of Product Development, Mark Adams. "We are proud to partner with NASS and are excited to showcase the strong utilization and clinical experience with our most recent product launches."

Globus welcomes registered NASS surgeon attendees to view clinical presentations on Thursday October 8th.
